

Next Gen Selection

The new standard in hop selection for craft brewers.

CHOICE, CONSISTENCY, CONTROL

For larger brewers, the time-honored tradition of selecting hops during harvest is a hallmark of quality and a harbinger of innovative new brews to come. But for the majority of small brewers, selection has been inaccessible, or, for some who have attended, unsatisfying. With the introduction of the Haas Next Gen selection program, we aim to make true hop selection both available and essential to craft brewers of all sizes, with low minimums and flexibility built-in to purchasing.

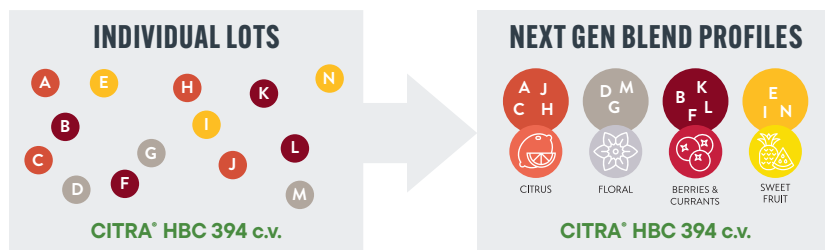

WHO CAN ATTEND

With a minimum commitment of only 220 pounds per variety, Next Gen opens the door to brewers large and small to take part in the selection process and reap the benefits of a sensory driven, data supported platform for hop procurement, supply chain management, and quality control.

NEXT GEN DEFINED

Brewers attending Next Gen selection are presented true-to-type lots of the same variety, with each lot categorized using sensory-crafted profiles. These specific traits are identified during intake using analysis methodology which enable each brewer to confidently select their preferred profile each harvest. Once you choose, HAAS will deliver a quality pellet from the sensory profile that is consistent year over year.

Sensory-crafted profiles are true-to-type to the variety.
